Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 06 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showers then rain and feeling very cold today. Snow overnight.

Today:
Scattered showers this morning, with some limited bright intervals. This afternoon longer spells of rain will arrive, sometimes heavy. Feeling cold everywhere, especially along the north Kent coast where a strong onshore wind will develop. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:
Rain or sleet will turn to snow overnight, becoming often heavy. Later significant accumulations of snow will occur, especially for eastern areas, with drifting snow likely as strong winds develop. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Sunday:
Widespread snow and strong bitterly cold winds, the snow heavy at times, mainly across eastern areas. Further significant accumulations will occur, with drifting likely, especially for Kent. Maximum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Monday snow showers or longer spells of snow, with further accumulations and drifting snow in strong winds, particularly for Kent. Tuesday scattered snow showers, Wednesday mainly dry. Feeling bitterly cold.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.